

The system allows users to generate personalized PDF files based on a selected set of questions and topics. To do this, the system facilitates the selection of related questions and themes, which are used to structure the content of the PDF document. The document is then generated and stored, allowing it to be viewed and downloaded.