

The system allows a player to interact with a dice game. In each turn, the player rolls two dice to obtain a random value. The result of the dice roll determines the action taken in the game, which influences the game's progress and the player's decisions.